SATURDAY, APRIL 22, 1865. Since our last, we have to note the arrivals of the Br. schr. Domitila, Am. bark Whistler, Am. barkentine Constitution, and Haw, brig Marning Star, from foreign ports. The Domitile brings a full freight of general merchandise from Victoria, V. I. We hear she had to refuse freight which was offered, and which was subsequently shipped to San Francisco for transhipmini. We learn that another vessel will be

The Whistler brought a large and valuable freight from San Francisco, of general merchandise, a portion of which were goods ordered from Eastern ports.

The Constitution brings a load of lumber, which is offered for sale in to-day a paper.

The H. W. Wood will leave early next week, with a full freight and passenger list, for Bremen. Quotations for Island produce differ little from those of last week, excepting, perhaps, Rice, which, by last quotations from San Francisco, had gone up to 17 cents per pound. A lot of Oil, part of the Fictoria's cargo, has been sold on

By our advertising columns it will be seen that two more plantations have become producers, both of them evidences of Yankee perseverence and energy. We have seen a circular addressed to planters and others interested in the manufacture of Sugars, from a leading Refinery in San Francisco; of which Mesers. Hackfeld & Co. are agents, urging upon them the necessity of making more low-grade Fugura, or Melado, for reasons stated, to which we would call their attention. The Hang and Oulin plantations are both "manufacturing this article, and their crops have been disposed of by their agents, Messrs. Brewer & Co., to agents of the San Francisco Refineries.

Private dispatches quote Gold on the 28th of March at 154; Sterling Exchange, 109. 29th, Gold, 152. [Later dates, 146.] The latest telegrams inform us that leading dry goods houses, as well as importers of some other descriptions of goods, are following the example of the bankers in the case of exchange, in demanding gold in payment of goods. This custom is spreading, apparently, and anything like a general adoption of it would bring prices at once to steady specie level, but would throw legal tenders and National Bank notes entirely into the hands of the brokers, where they would serve no other purpose than the payment of taxes and maturing debts. The Govern-ment requires all duties in gold, the bankers have long since fixed the price of exchange in gold, and the importers are now apparently disposed, since they have to pay duties and exchange in gold, to require pay for merchandise in gold. This once generally insisted upon, would make it imperative upon the jobbers to sell for gold, and the whole circle of business would soon require the application of gold to the purchase of

The following is telegraphic to the S. F. papers: New York, March 23 .- The Post's trade report to-day says dry goods are considerable lower. The prices ruling in domestics are depressed. At auction sale by Wilmering & Mount yesterday, Arnold prints brought 164 cents. Atlantic mourning prints 183, Swift River Crown goods 21, which is 6 cents per yard lower than yesterday's price, and Androscoggin 44, bleached 29 cents. Owners would not duplicate goods at these prices. To-day American defaines which sold recently at 68, sold largety at 231; flannets and woollen goods are greatly de-pressed; foreign and fancy goods are held firmly, while choice articles are scarce, and with reasonable demands prices must advance. This morning prices are slightly lower except in bleached goods, which are firm.

Bostos, March 24.-An extensive auction sale of Cape and Domestic Fisece Wool to-day attracted a great attendance and unsettled the market. Buyers are shy. Some of the most valuable lots withdrawn from sale. The prices for Cape Wool ranged from 30 to 40c; Domestic, 431 ab 814c. The latter figure was paid for 2,000 lbs. fine Permsylvania; and a lot of very superior Vermont Wool was held at 614c; and 67,000 lbs. of Ohio Fleece are said to have brought a dollar

New York, March 28 .- There is a decided decline in dry goods, especially in standard brown sheetings, ticks and bleached. One leading jobbing house reports New York Mills, bleached at 424, and others in proportion; Stark Mills, brown, 41; Amoskeng Dunns, 55-prices rapidly being based on cotton at about 50 cents per pound.

SATURDAY, APRIL 22. Over a century ago, in the year of our Lord, 1729, George Berkeley, divine, poet, philosopher and gentle enthusiast,-for whose epitaph Pope wrote "To Berkeley every virtue under heaven" -published his prophecy that "America will be the seat of the fifth empire," and penned those verses so often quoted, but now more than "Then shall be sung another golden age

The rise of empire and of arts: The good and great inspiring epic rage, The wisest heads and noblest hearts. # Not such as Europe breeds in her decay; Such as she bred when fresh and young.

By future poets shall be sung. "Westward the course of empire takes it way; The first four acts already past, A fifth shall close the drama with the day;

When heavenly flame did animate her clay,

Time's noblest offspring is the last." Arts, sciences, and empire have indeed traveled westward, and, taking root and flourishing on the farthest shores of the vast continent which in Berkeley's day was "a treasure of natural resources yet untouched," are hastening the grand fulfillment of destiny. Ere long the iron-horse, whose sinews grew and hardened on the Atlantic slopes, will pause only at the Pacific strand on his screaming race of empire and "epic rage," and the riches of China and "the farthest Ind" will be brought thither in argosies steaming and smoking over whilom ocean solitudes. And we, too, far out amid the "melancholy main," have felt the magic influence of the coming era. We cannot, if we would, ignore or shun the contact of the living spirit that, from Vancouver to Mexico, animates the most progressive and commercially aggressive race on earth.

The time was, and quite recently too, when to hazard the prediction that the Hawaiian Islands were to enter, in the not distant future, upon a career of eminent agricultural and commercial activity and wealth, would have been to earn the reputation of an idle dreamer and enthusiast. But the history of our past ten years progress gives clear, solid and conclusive proofs of the grand resources that lie for the most part yet dormant in our grasp, and lifts to view a corner of the curtain which hides the rich future in store for us. Our glowing hopes are based on a foundation far better than the precarious whale fishery, or money-sinking mines, or even the dream, once indulged in by some, of our becoming the entrepot or commercial warehouse of the Pacific-they are based on our pursuit of the primary, the legitimate, the most honorable occupation of manthe cultivation of the soil.

To the man of forethought, objects do not appear little because they are remote, and he values present advantages and opportunities mainly as they point out and conduce to the ultimate end at which he aims, while looking forward into futurity and considering what will be his condition in years to come : and thus he lays out his farm and builds his homestead. As with the individual, so ought it to be with the state. The utmost care should be exercised by those who are entrusted with the management of affairs, that the foundations of the social superstructure are laid with a view to the future, sufficiently broad, strong and deep to obviate the necessity, by and by, of vexatious and expensive alterations to meet new conditions, or repairs to supply that which was carelessly or inefficiently done in the beginning. Alas for the future of that political structure which has fallen into the hands of tyros and tinkers! A most selfish and blind governmental policy is that which, adopting the maxim, "after us the deluge," is content with feeding upon the sufficiency of the present, regardless of the probable needs of the future.

The spirit of the age is said to be eminently aggressive as well as progressive—that those who will not sail or paddle with the current will in the rush and sweep of the race, lose both oars and rudder, and be ruthlessly dragged beneath the seething billows. If the pilots of our little ship of state are neither skillful, watchful nor prudent, and waste their time in trifling and costly experiments or apathetic indolence, ignorant and careless of the tide in the affairs of nations as well as of men that taken at the flood leads on to fortune, let us the foremast hands, whose humble interests and destinies are all embarked here, keep a vigilant look-out for the and equally weather to the Line, which we crossed on the 9th | favoring airs and eddies of prosperity, and we shall yet gain the port of our desires in spite of bad steerage and unskillful navigators. Let us too, thank heaven that we are happily situated upon the world, not in it, so that we are beyond the strength of the tide, and while we hear the roar and see the whirl of mad waters far out in the stream, we may glide smoothly on our course near the quiet banks, if not so rapidly yet none the less certainly in the direction of neous materials, curiously and unavoidably intermingled. Having the yet undeveloped Hawaiian for a basis, all, nationalities, with the widely differing manners and customs, opposite systems of faith, and various degrees of bloodfrom the warm tropical to the sluggish Arcticcompose the materials of our population, from which in the coming years is to grow up the nation that shall inhabit these islands. On us, who are of this generation, devolves the task, the serious duty, of moulding and fashioning these materials, and determining the shape they are to assume in the future; and in this view, every act of ours to-day becomes invested with pregnant importance. A high trust, a grave responsibility, is theirs in whose hands is the education of the rising generation of Hawaii nei. In this, above all other departments of government, there should be no frittering of time or money on experimental hobbies, no rough or hasty changes in systems that have hitherto subserved a good purpose, and no favoritism or ostracism of nationalities or creeds. An intimate knowledge of the characteristics and the necessities of the people-a liberal and unbiased mind up to the realities of the present, and awake to the foreshadowings of the coming time -a firm hand and delicate tact in the direction of details-and an unreserved and conscientious devotion to duty-these are indispensable requi- If it was more on the principle of the Portuguesa sites. While favoring, by all fair and feasible means, the spread of the English language tile as well as criminal to devote, as has been advocated by some in government councils, the entire means and efforts of the educational department to that end, and thus leave four-fifths of the coming generation to grow up in utter ignorance. - Continue, by all means, the Honolulu schools and let there be a well-conducted English boarding-school in each district that will contribute a reasonable proportion of the expense. Let there be a Professor with a separate department for English at Lahainalana; but let us hear no more of the Utopian scheme of entirely substituting English schools for those now taught in Hawaiian, that, abounding in every district, are now the just pride and hope of the nation, and render the proportion of Hawaiians unable to read and write less than that of any other people on earth.

In no country in the world is it more necessary or desirable to cultivate a feeling of cosmopolite fellowship than in these islands. Made up. as is the foreign population, of representatives of so many different and differing nationalities, but circumscribed to narrow limits, brought into daily intimate relations, and possessing an identity of public interests, it must surely be consummate folly, if not criminality, in any one to cherish or cultivate national antipathies, or to endeavor to draw party lines founded upon a state of things which exists, or once existed, on the other side of the globe. Yet towards this undesirable state of affairs have we been drifting since the advent of the new Church Establishment from England. Every plan which a small mind could suggest has been used, which has at last culminated in an unfair and unchristianlike citicism, in pamphlet form, from the pen of the Bishop himself, of the works of those who, every candid mind will admit, have been the true and faithful friends of the Hawaiian race. Here, more than elsewhere, should mutual forbearance and good-will be the rule, not the exception, in our dealings and intercourse with each other; and, in proportion as we cultivate these virtues, will be felt and seen a salutary influence on the incoming tide of immigration, which a prosperous career is sure to attract hither-an influence that must react vastly to our comfort and advantage. When a candidate is mentioned for a vacant position in either Government or private employ, a bigoted or small mind will inquire his nativity, instead of propounding the frank and all-sufficient query, " Is he honest-is he capable?"

Cherishing the things and the memories of the past only so far as we may profit by the lessons of their experience, let us trim our sails for the coming breeze of good times, the first breathings of which we already feel, while we bear in mind the ancient proverb, " God helps them that help themselves.

Letter from San Francisco. (From our Correspondent.)

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4, 1865.

Change in Honolulu Packets. Since my last, the Vankee has sailed for Valparaiso, commanded by Captain William Stott, also the Young Hector for the same place, commanded by Captain Fuller. The Whistler leaves to-day. She will be followed by the Onward on Saturday next, the 8th instant. The D. C. Murray will be ready by the 15th instant, and will probably sail on that date. Messrs. J. C. King & Co. dispatch the Merchantman in all this week for Hilo. My old friend, Captain Chadwick, does not like the atmosphere of Montgomery street, and I rarely meet him. That he may live a thousand years, or as much less as he desires, is my heartfelt wish, and that he may, any way, survive to see the new Planters' Line vigorous even its infancy, equal to its flourishing and maturer rivals, the Regular Dispatch and Hawaiian Packet Lines, which will be in considerably less than respondence of the Sacramento Union : "Seward, who is favorably inclined toward a consummation of this treaty, has finally concluded to lay it aside for the present, and has informed J. R. McBride, of Oregon, who has been active in the matter, that as the present time is not auspicious for the completion of a treaty, he has passed it by until our own domestic concerns are somewhat more quiet." A Steam Line with China.

By telegraph we received the intelligence some time since, of the law passed by Congress inviting the establishment of a line of steamers between San Francisco and China, and that the Hawaiian Islands were included in the route. As you will notice, the law provides for the payment of $500,000 per annum for ten years to a line of steamships, of not less than three thousand tons burden, which shall make monthly trips between the ports named. The ships must be of the first class, and must be inspected and approved by a naval constructor, appointed by the Navy Department, who shall report to the Postmaster-General. The ships are now contracted for, and will be ready for service within one year. In connection with the foregoing, the followtem, in reference to Pacific Mail Stock, occurs in the New York Tribune's money article of Feb. 18: "Pacific Mail stock was quoted at 815, ex dividend, this morning, and at 329 in the afternoon. This company is in a condition to open at once a line to China, under the law just passed by Congress granting an annual subsidy of $500,000. This line has always been lil erally managed, and has deserved all its success. Its past history makes it certain that the China route, under its management, will be a credit to American commerce and a great national advantage. The new field upon which it enters requires additional capital, and an amendment to its charter has been asked from the Legislature at Albany to carry out this object. New York has a controlling interest in the success of the China line, which will oblige Europe to turn much of its business to China via New York and San Francisco.

Hiatus in the Mails. The Sacramento arrived yesterday from Panama, but brought no Eastern mails. The mails that should have left New York on the 3d, in consequence of the interruption occasioned by the accident to the North Star at Aspinwall, did not leave until the 13th. Hence, the steamer following the Sucramento will bring the accumulated mails of three weeks. Fall in Gold.

The great event in our financial circles, since the sailing of the Eldridge, has been the fall in gold, which has touched a point in New York as low as 144, producing at the East quite a panic in commermercial circles, and which has made more or less complications here in our Eastern remittances. As your merchants have undoubtedly purchased no exchange unless payable in gold or its equivalent, they will neither be gainers nor losers so far as the exchange operations in themselves are concerned, but they will nevertheless feel more or less in its other business bearings the vacillation of our legal currency. Speculation in legal tenders is rampant here, and a rate lower than 60 cents to the dollar is not looked for. The news received to day of the fall of Petersburg will not tend to allay the fever.

Personal. Judge Alien and Mrs. Allen are in this city, en route to Honolulu. The mission to Washington with which general report, substantiated by concurrent circumstances, invested Mr. Allen, remains for the present in abeyance, and I have alluded elsewhere to the comments of the correspondent of the Sacramento Union on the subject. The fact is, " not to put too fine a point upon it," that Uncle Sam derived from customs duties, in 1864, on Hawaiian products, about $400,000, and, with the anticipated increase of sugar duties, and the increased production and export of sugars for 1865, will this year derive a revenue not much less than three quarters of a million of dollars, and does not, in the present state of his exchequer, feel like giving up so good a thing. swap, which, in the doggerel of the forcastle, is son the subject with him. Mr. Theodore W. Davis of Honolulu, sailed in the steamer of the 3d for Panama, on route for England. Mr. J. S. Waterhouse of Honolula, was also passenger. Mr. W. A. Aldrich informs me that he will probably leave here in the D. C. Murray, by which vessel Judge Allen and Mrs. Allen will also take passage, should they not succeed in obtaining rooms on board the Archer, which is advertised to leave this on the 6th instant.

Obituary. Mr. B. F. Durham, book-keeper for C. W. Brooks & Co. of San Francisco, died very suddenly on the evening of the 18th instant, of congestion of the brain. This will be a heavy blow to the many warm and attached friends he had at Honolulu, for his was one of those natures, that made and preserved warm friendships. He was buried with masonic honors from the Masonic Temple. Mr. Durham was thirty-five years of age. His mother resides in Pennsylvania, and he was a cousin to U. S. Senator Harding of Oregon.

Hawaiian Consular Certificates. The invoices per Whistler will have annexed the Consular Certificates of the Hawaiian Consul, in accordance with the late law passed by your Legislature. The billet is now worth having, and if there is a prospect of any immediate change in the incambent, I want to be considered an applicant. I am willing to return half fees to the party who will procure me the berth, and keep up the dignity of the government by spending all the emoluments arising from the office. But as Hitchcock is probably willing to do the same, my chance on that score is small the other day. War News. The Bulletin to-night contains a telegram that Petersburg is taken and to-morrow's Alta, which will go by the Whistler, will have later intelligence than is contained in this. Montgomery street is filled with crowds, and flags are flying from every house-top and across the street, while bands are play ing, the "Star Spangled Banner," "Down with the Traitor," &c. It isn't healthy now-a-days to be a Copperhead, or in other words, a Northern man with Southern proclivities. I see the Shenandoah is telegraphed as being in the Pacific. She burnt eleven ships off Melbourne. She may visit Honolulu, if so, it will not be difficult to say who will be ready to make the first visit on board. Uncle Abe is at City Point with the army of the Potomac, and take it all round, it is lively in the vicinity of Richmond about this time. My page is out, so.
